GHI Members Will Receive Housing Referendum By Mail

by Sid Kastner

GHI's board of directors at Thursday evening's regular meeting discussed the part that GHI could play in the President's youth opportunity program, set up a subcommittee to develop a referendum to the members on the proposed housing program, and prepared for a joint GHI-city conference on the Hillside road extension cost recently incorporated in the city's program.

The directors decided to continue the present standing committees, at the same time suggesting to the manager that he publish the committee personnel needs in the Newsletter so that interested members may contact him.

Manager Roy Breashears noted that it still has to be decided how to charge the $11,000 cost of the Hillside road extension—that is, how much should be charged to adjacent property owners and how much to taxes. He emphasized that a uniform policy is needed to assure equitable treatment for all. Chairman Charles Schwan and director Norman Weyel agreed that specific recommendations needed to be made to city council regarding these assessments, and Breashears stated that he would draw up a memorandum on the matter for the joint meeting.

Director O'Reilly expressed his opinion at this point that it would be better from the long-range point of view to urge the city to extend Ridge Road now, or consider other alternate solutions, rather than carry out the Hillside Road extension, which would increase traffic flow through Greenbelt's center. Directors Jim Smith, Gerald Gough and Weyel took the opposing view in a short-lived but lively debate.

Mail Referendum

With regard to the building of new individual homes, Manager Breashears suggested a referendum by mail would be an efficient way of getting the membership's voice on the project. He, as well as some of the directors, expressed the need for getting all the information available to the members so that an informed decision could be made. Director Nat Shinderman summarized the meeting held previously with interested members. Though some questioned the purpose of the program, he reported, the majority feeling was that the corporation should act to alleviate the problems of large families, and many were in favor of constructing townhouses concurrently with the four individual homes. There was overwhelming sentiment in favor of three of the four ownership criteria adopted by the board: initially limit ownership to GHI members, select financially responsible people, and consider family size. The fourth—member's contribution to GHI and/or the community—was definitely rejected. Shinderman concluded by saying that there was a need to clarify the details of the project to the members. O'Reilly concurred that the general feeling at the meeting was that there is more need for the lower-cost townhouses than for the individual homes, and moved that subject to the membership's approval GHI proceed with the study and construction of houses on the land opposite the North End school. Shinderman also moved that a membership meeting be held on the building of the four homes and on the houses in the North End area, and that a referendum then be held; both motions were passed. O'Reilly then moved that a board subcommittee be appointed to work with the manager to develop all the pertinent information and draw up a referendum questionnaire to submit to the members. On the passing of this motion, Schwan appointed the following members of the subcommittee: Secretary Shinderman, O'Reilly, Gough, Weyel and Smith, with Schwan himself participating.

Residents Petitions

The board then heard petitions by Messrs. Charles and Zelow of 2D Gardenway and Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan of 14-D Laurel Hill Road. Charles asked that GHI allow the court residents to park on a grassy area adjacent to his court, on which at present there are no parking signs, since the parking space he has been using is no longer available. In answer to a question by director O'Reilly, Charles stated that at present his family has three cars and will be getting a fourth one. Breashears described the court as having more than the usual number of parking spaces for its size, and expressed the view that the area in question, if not actually paved as a parking area, would better be left as it is. Directors Burgoon and O'Reilly both urged that management survey how many garages are being used by non-residents of the court, and while sympathetic to Charles' problem noted that it could not be solved by cutting down trees in one court, for other people would then want this done. Mr. Zelow complained that the laundry lines behind the adjacent apartments are an "eyesore," and asked GHI to do what it could to get them removed. The Sullivans appeared to appeal a denial of an earlier petition, in which they asked permission to lay concrete over their whole yard because of a bad drainage problem.

Schwan thanked these petitioners for appearing before the board and assured them that their respective cases would receive full consideration.

The aims of the President's youth opportunity program were

Publish Annual Anthology By Greenbelt Poetry Club

The annual presentation of the anthology of the Greenbelt Poetry Club took place on Monday, June 14, at the Center School. Forty-two children in the 3rd through 6th grades were enrolled this year, under the leadership of Mrs. Marjorie Donn. The current anthology, the biggest to date, contains all the poems written by members of the club during the year.

Members recited their poems to an audience composed of poetry club members and their families and friends. Greenbelter Ronald Allen Charles, former poetry editor of the literary magazine of The Citadel, the military college of South Carolina, spoke on the structure of various poetic forms. Richard Stevenson, director of the Greenbelt Recreation Department, was master of ceremonies.

The Poetry Club was started in 1959 by Mrs. Marjorie Muir, who was then Greenbelt's librarian. Mrs. Muir was transferred to the new Regional Library in 1963. A group of Greenbelt parents decided to continue the club on their own. They eventually found a volunteer, Mrs. Donn, to act as advisor, and a formal sponsor, the Greenbelt Recreation Department.

Berwyn Heights Civic Assn. Joins in Support of CFPG

The Berwyn Heights Civic Association has joined the Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt (CFPG) in requesting the County Commissioners to adopt the Greenbelt Master Plan, it was reported Tuesday night.

The Berwyn Heights group wrote the commissioners, urging their consideration of any reasonable alternative to the Area 13 North plan which would reduce the population density envisioned in that plan.

The Greenbelt Master Plan, it said, was just such an alternative.

At the weekly meeting of the CFPG steering committee at the Municipal Building it also was reported that more than 2,000 Greenbelters have signed the "Save Greenbelt" petitions. These petitions have been forwarded to the County Commissioners, and there are more to come.

More than 550 Greenbelt families have become members of CFPG, with a minimum donation of $1.

Target Date for Pool Still Set at June 19

City Manager James Giese reports that he is hoping the Greenbelt swimming pool will open on June 19. A flag will be flown over the pool when it is ready for use.

Workmen must still complete the concrete decking, check the pumping system, and install fencing. One of the new pipelines was found to be broken last week when the pool was filled and placed in operation. The defective pipe has been dug up and replaced.

Paid Firemen In County

A one-year special appropriation for each of the 40 volunteer fire stations in Prince Georges County, to be used towards hiring of paid firemen, has been voted by the County Commissioners.

$160,000 will be available July 1, at the start of the new fiscal year, to assist the 36 local fire companies, some of whom have more than one station, pending completion of a survey of the overall fire protection program in the County.

The funds appropriated will advance to the fire companies $4,000 for each fire station towards the salary of paid firemen, in addition to the regular county contribution.

New Traffic Law

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles John R. Jewell today cautioned Maryland drivers under 21 years of age against acting as instructors for those holding learners' permits.

Jewell noted that one of the more than thirty new laws affecting motor vehicle administration in Maryland that became effective June 1, 1965, requires that those sitting in vehicles beside a student driver must be 21 years of age or older.

Fireworks on Fourth

The city's Fourth of July fireworks display will take place on Sunday, July 4, at Greenbelt Lake when darkness falls. In case of rain, the display will be postponed until Monday.

COUNCIL VOTES TO SEEK OPTIONS ON POSSIBLE PARKLAND AT LAKE

by Dorothy Sucher

The City Council at its meeting on Monday, June 14, took another step toward the eventual acquisition of additional parkland near Greenbelt Lake. Four privately-owned parcels totalling approximately 22 acres have already been surveyed by appraisers hired by the city.

The council passed a motion on Monday authorizing the city manager to approach the owners of the four parcels, with a view to obtaining options to purchase the land.

Whether or not the city goes ahead with its program of parkland acquisition is a question the voters must decide in September. The public will be asked to approve a referendum authorizing a bond issue to purchase the land. A second motion passed by the City Council on June 14 requested the city solicitor to prepare an ordinance concerning the bond issue in time to be considered at the July council meeting.

Federal Funds

City Manager James Giese reported that chances seem good for the city to qualify for federal funds under the Open Spaces Land Program. The contribution of the federal government would probably be 20% to 30% of the actual purchase price of the land (engineering surveys, legal fees, etc., are not covered by the federal program).

The city is hoping the federal government will give preliminary approval to its plans before long. However, no final agreement can be reached until the referendum has authorized the city to purchase the parkland.

The land in question consists of: (1) a large parcel (approximately 16 acres) behind the north shore of the lake; (2) a parcel located between St. Hugh's church and the Pepco substation; and (3) two parcels located on old Crescent Road to the west of the parking lot.

Builder's Debris

Another item on the agenda, concerning builder's debris at the Lakecrest subdivision, provoked a lively discussion between councilmen and citizens in the audience.

For several months, residents have been complaining about debris left at the end of Lakeside Drive on public rights of way, in the creek, and on property owned by developers Charles Bresler and Stanley Schultz. Last month they presented the City Council with a petition asking for relief.

Although some debris has been cleared away since that time, dumping operations have continued and the overall situation has not improved.

City Manager James Giese stated that the city solicitor believes an existing city ordinance prohibiting littering on private property is adequate to cover the situation. In the opinion of the solicitor, enforcement of this ordinance would require that an aggrieved party—a resident—swear out a warrant.

Residents present in the audience objected that action should be taken by the city rather than by an individual, who might then be subject to a suit for false arrest.

Mayor Edgar Smith commented: "I think we ought to find out whether the city can bring an action; and if so I think we ought to go ahead and do it."

If the State's Attorney's office advises the city it cannot bring an action, it will presumably be up to some aggrieved individual to do so.

Earlier proposals that city workmen clear away builders' debris left on private property, with the city to be reimbursed by the developer, were opposed by Mayor Smith, who felt that the city forces could be more usefully employed elsewhere.

Appointments

Eight appointments were made to the city's Recreation Advisory Board. New appointees were Mrs. Janice Wyatt and Robert Donkis. The following former board members were reappointed: Walter Dean, Charles Collins, Edward Coulter, William Hand, Jack Schiff, and Joseph O'Loughlin.

Other Business

Several auditing firms will be asked to submit bids to make an audit of city accounts for the fiscal year 1964-65.

An ordinance regulating conflict of interest was tabled.

Greenbelt American Legion Post 136 presented the city with a new flag, to be flown at the Memorial Centerway.

Groups Disagree On High-Rise Benefits

Two groups in the last month have come up with sharply opposed judgments concerning the long-range benefits of high density zoning.

A report released by the Prince Georges Economic Development Committee claims that "the high rent, high rise apartment resident is a tax windfall" to the citizens and county government. The reason given is that "apartment dwellers have far fewer children of school age."

According to the report, high rise dwellers paid $65.51 per apartment more in taxes than they received in services, including education, from the county. It cited similar studies made recently in Nassau County, New York, and suburban Philadelphia.

The committee stated that due to land use restrictions imposed by law on high rise developers "it can be seen that high rise can be a valuable planning tool if properly used in the preservation of open spaces and in breaking the monotony of single family suburban sprawl."

Opposing claims

The Prince Georges Home Rule Committee, on the other hand, charges that high-rise apartments are being built in excessive numbers, and gives the following statistics which it claims has been obtained from official sources:

Over 6,000 apartments in the R-18 and R-10 (high rise) categories were built in 1963. This figure means that more apartments were built in 1963 than in the entire six year period from 1955 through 1960. The growth percentage of apartment construction is increasing (11% in 1961, 16% in 1962, 19% in 1963, approximately 26% in 1964). Approximately 10,000 units were estimated for construction in 1964. In comparison, only 2,800 apartment units were constructed in 1961. At present, there are an estimated 50,000 apartment units, as opposed to an estimated 84,800 single-family units. In 1963, for the first time, a majority (56%) of all dwelling units constructed in Prince Georges County were apartment units. The estimate for 1964 is 68%.

Approximately 840 zoning applications in all categories are on file in the M-NPPC. Under the former statute, the Planning Commission had a minimum of three months to consider an application, and no maximum. Under House Bill 696, passed at the most recent session of the General Assembly, the Planning Commission has a maximum of six months to consider a rezoning application. This means that the Planning Commission and its staff must investigate, report, and consider approximately one rezoning request each working hour of every working day, according to the committee.

World's Fair Tour

The deadline for registration for the Greenbelt Travel Club's twenty-four hour World's Fair jaunt is June 19. There are still several openings for the trip, which will take place June 26.

When the bus returns, it will make one trip around Greenbelt to drop passengers near their homes.

Point of View by Dorothy Sucher

The Greenbelt Poetry Club has just published its annual anthology, and as usual the booklet makes interesting reading. Forty-two children in the third through sixth grades were enrolled this year under the leadership of Mrs. Marjorie Donn, a volunteer who has given her time generously to the group.

The poems in the anthology are arranged according to subject, and the subject of school proved particularly stimulating:

School is boring.
As boring as school can be.
I'd much rather go fishing,
Out in a boat,
And just float, float, float.

(Joan Linstrom)

The worst place in the world
Is where the boys and girls
Go every day,
Where we must stay
In our classroom.

(Diane Willard)

A more conciliatory attitude was taken by third - grader Kathy Kiddy:

At school we work and do not talk.
There is a time for play.
Be good in school, okay.

The natural world—the seasons and the weather, animals and plants—have always inspired poets.
Clouds are white
They are really vapor
They are as white as a white sheet of paper.

(Sharon O'Reilly)

Green is made of yellow and blue.
Yellow for the sun, blue for the sky,
And all together they make green.
Green is for the grass.
All together they make the world.

(Susan Goldstein)

One day my cat was going mating while I was baking.
She smelled the good food and got in a good mood.

Soon she got kittens and they were very cute
And I named one little Tute a Tute
Tute.

(Janis McFarland)

Five French fireflies flying far from France
Foolishly forgot to fear the great
Bee Dance.

Fifty fighting bees charged at them,
Goodness!
Never let them go flying again!

(Ruth Kastner)

I see a little ant hill
Look that ant is ill.
I will go in the house now
And get that ant a pill.

(Wendy Sydow)

The poems quoted above are not the only ones that appealed to me, and as the sample shows, many of them are charming and original. However, in reading through the anthology I was struck by the triteness of many of the verses. It surprised me, because the children are very young and I expected their insights to be fresher.

The anthology reveals that the youngsters need to be encouraged to revise more and to view their first attempts critically. They would profit by learning ruthlessly to eliminate "fright" when it is only stuck in to rhyme with "white," and makes no sense; and to extinguish the inevitable "breeze" that only blows because the previous line ends in "trees." I much preferred Mary Louise Burkart's

Flowers sway in the breeze

Some of them make me sneeze.
Mary's breeze is convincing.

"Seem to" ought to be placed on the blacklist. So should "I do think" and "do you know" and "almost really" and "such a"—all inserted to pad out a line when a few more syllables are needed.

Meter is sometimes effective, but often it is ragged. Many potentially good poems in the anthology, promising enough as first drafts, need more revision to make them sing and linger in the memory.

What is poetry?
Poetry is everything,
Anything at all
Poetry is everywhere,
Everywhere you look.

(Olga Penney)

Is this true? In a sense. Occasions and subjects for poetry are everywhere, but poetry itself is man-made. The poetry is the treatment of the subject: the surprising and delightful expression that lifts it out of the ordinary and makes it unique.

Sick in bed is an experience.
I've been through it once or twice.
But when I go outdoors again,
I find it very nice.

(Andrea Haslinger)

Andrea's splendid first line has an authority many an older poet might envy. The rest of the poem doesn't match its quality, and the fatally bland "nice" at the end destroys the effect.

Look at football's heroes
Who play a national game
With pads and helmets of glory
To win undying fame.

(Georges Jones)

George's poem starts out with a rousing swing (the second stanza, not reproduced here, is excellent, too); but a cliché like "undying fame" has no business rubbing shoulders with a phrase as good as "helmets of glory."

Then I go upstairs to bed
And I put my pillow at my head.
Then I go right to sleep,
For some reason the night seems deep!

(Julie Maffay)

The reason is not far to seek; Julie needed a rhyme for "sleep." She really knows it is not convincing, or why else would she have placed an exclamation mark after the line to pep it up? It doesn't do the trick, and she should have been encouraged to work longer to improve her verses.

Do you like your mother's vacuum cleaner going around the house?

These opening lines of Sarah Hanna's poem aroused my interest immediately. But I was disappointed when the next line read, "She sure would scream if she found a mouse." The rest of the poem meanders on about mice, and yet I don't think Sarah was planning to write a poem about mice, but about her mother's vacuum cleaner. She would have been well advised to trap and dispose of that intrusive mouse and return to her original idea.

Is it foolish or somehow unfair to criticize an anthology of children's verse as though it were written by "real" poets? I don't think so. There's some very real poetry in this little book, and I would like to see even more in anthologies to come. Mrs. Donn has done a commendable job of helping the members of the poetry club to express themselves in verse. Let us hope she will continue next year to lead them toward the goal of true excellence. The goal may be unattainable, but the faithful pursuit of it will bring abundant rewards to her young poets.

Carnival at Springhill Lake

An old-fashioned carnival with pony rides, amusement booths, and bingo will take place in and around the Springhill Lake Community House on Saturday, July 3, weather permitting.

Speaking Sternly by David Stern

DIETERS ANONYMOUS

It all started when our wife joined Dieters Anonymous about a month ago. Never heard of them? You must be kidding. Well - they are similar to Alcoholics Anonymous except that it's food, not drink, that their members abhor.

Say you weigh 30 pounds more than you can afford and your wife surprises you with a big birthday cake, sugar and cream on top. Women are like that - surprises, all the time. What are you going to do? While your resolutions shake and your tastebuds salivate run, don't walk, to the phone and ring up your nearest D.A. buddy. Soon afterwards the cake is safely on its way to a needy family or a ravenous troop of boy scouts and when your wife returns from the Co-op you can tell her what a wonderful cake she's baked. She'll cry with joy and chances are she'll bake an even bigger one the following year. Women are like that.

For a few weeks we watched and endured. Indeed, during the first fortnight our wife lost a pound and a half - we lost four, no doubt because dinners were getting skimpier all that time. We even had to forgo those in-between snacks, for all that was left in the refrigerator were turnips and the baby's food. But worse was to come - namely, assorted ladies who'd drop in and sip their sugarless coffee or their diet-cola while discussing for hours on end the single subject of - yes, you guessed it - food. When they weren't coming they phoned, all day and night long: emergencies were cropping up continually and our wife was always ready to rush to the rescue.

One evening after dinner (if you can call it that) while our wife was downstairs minding the washer the phone rang. "Hello?"

"I am a member of D.A. and need help. Any help?"

"Yes, ma'am" (come to think of it, we haven't found one male member among the D.A. yet)

"I lost control of myself and baked a huge pizza. My husband's away, the kids are with the neighbors and - oh, you got to help me! I don't know how much longer I'll be able to control myself. Please! The smell is seeping through the kitchen door!"

We took down the address, said we'll be over instantly and had just put down the receiver when our wife appeared. That washer makes such a racket that she hadn't heard a thing. We rushed to the door.

"Forgot to tell you, honey - got a meeting tonight."

"Now he tells me. Don't be back

Share The Hazards?

To the Editor :

Is this democracy when G.H.I. and the citizens of Lakewood can oppose the Greenhill-Hillside Road extension and still have it forced upon them? The obsession of a few that we share their hazards makes me wonder, did they have their problem forced upon them too? Even so why should the same mistake be made twice? Can't a better place be found to spend those hard-earned tax dollars? Must we pave an impossibly steep hillside which will literally pour traffic down on a subdivision with hundreds of children who are unaccustomed to traffic? Will we have traffic stop at the seven cul-de-sacs which enter Greenhill Road?

Cottingham - MacDougall

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Cottingham, 8 Greenway, announce the marriage of their daughter, Joyce Marie Cottingham, to Donald Holden MacDougall, son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacDougall of Ledyard, Connecticut.

The wedding took place on Saturday, June 5, at St. Hugh's Church. Ellyn Cottingham, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Henry C. Burdick was best man. Douglass MacDougall and Peter Tribance ushered.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the Holiday Inn in College Park.

The couple will reside in Greenbelt for about a month before going overseas.

Big Request

To The Editor :

After delivering newspapers for our son, we appreciate the job it is. There is on BIG request we would like to make. Please, please put house numbers where they can be found easily. For novices like us, it complicated things because many houses had no number or letter. If we didn't know the alphabet, it would be impossible. To those who do have their numbers posted, a great big THANKS.

Tick Season Here

Examine children for ticks twice daily now, warns a University of Maryland insect specialist.

Look for ticks at the hair line, and use a tissue to pick them off. If a tick is attached to the skin, apply alcohol or heat to dislodge it. Then burn the tick or flush it away. If the tick has broken the skin, apply iodine to the area and drill lightly with a toothpick. Wash hands thoroughly after handling the parasite.

The American dog tick, also called wood tick, can carry the Rocky Mountain spotted fever to humans—especially if it has been attached to the body for five or more hours.

This tick favors tall grass that borders paths, making it easy for the pest to cling to a passing person or dog. Close trimming of grass along pathways is recommended. After cutting, spray the grass along the path with DDT or lindane in water.

described by Shinderman. It will endeavor to provide summer employment for about 500,000 young people between 16 and 21. He urged that to the extent that profitable use could be made of such workers in GHI's own program, GHI should participate. His motion to this effect was opposed by O'Reilly and Stephen Polaschik. O'Reilly indicated dissatisfaction with the wording which to him implied a "make-work" proposal, and suggested an alternate wording, with which Shinderman then disagreed. Smith's compromise motion, which was finally passed, stated "that GHI participate in the youth opportunity program, if management determines that additional help can be used; members of GHI families will have first priority."

Home Improvements
An arrangement for members' commercial charge accounts, suggested by Seymour Kaplan, was outlined by Breashears. It is one in which each member could have one or more charge accounts in the large stores, the charges being added to the GHI monthly charges. However, such a scheme is discouraged by the Better Business Bureau. He noted that GHI might be able to offer an alternative plan, independently, to finance home improvements at a small monthly charge; this would upgrade property and the money would come from the land-use funds which will be freed by the Twin Pines home financing arrangement.

Scout Regatta

Thirty-two entries in a miniature sailboat regatta provided a colorful and exciting sports event when Greenbelt's Cub Packs 746 and 1253 combined for a meet on Saturday, June 12, at the Lakeside North pool.

Receiving prizes for best design and construction were Hoyt Mat-thai and Sterling Tropp of Pack 746 and David Banish and John Velthius of Pack 1253.

A special sailboat race was held for Pack 746 scouts Mark Hanyok, Jonathan Maffay and Steve Gemeny. Mark Hanyok emerged as the winner.

Winners of the racing trophies for Pack 746 were: first, Jimmy Giddings; second, Nils Winkler; third, Gary Bowman; and fourth, David Lawrence. Pack 1253's winners were: first, David Banish; second, David Wall; third, Craig Zinter; and fourth, Andy Yakowenko. Jimmy Giddings of Pack 746 was the winner of the Grand Champion trophy in the final race.

Summer Thoughts From a Deckchair

by Dorothy Sucher
I hereby take oath and bear witness
That I'm tired of work, and I'm quitting.
You're welcome to physical fitness; My favorite diversion is sitting.
Hiking is fine, if you like it, So are pitching and catching and hitting,
So's digging for gold, if you strike it,
So's putting the shot. I'll take sitting.
If you think I'd be better off weeding
And hoeing, I don't mind admitting I'm lazy. I much prefer reading
An Agathie Christie while sitting.
Though my waistline expand, I can't fight it;
Though my lifespan contract, I'm submitting.
Let my epitaph read, when they write it,
"Here she lies, but she'd rather be sitting."

GCS ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc. will be held on Sunday, June 20, at 3 p.m. at the Youth Center and the picnic grounds adjacent. The meeting will be followed by a chicken barbecue and community band concert.

Tickets for the barbecue are on sale at the Co-op Supermarket.

Summer History Class

Greenbelt Center School has been selected to conduct the American Heritage portion of the county's summer enrichment program for grades 5 and 6. The class will run July 6 - 29. It is offered to children throughout the county; each school will send one child. The topic will be: Colonial Maryland - its influence on American History.

D.C. Roads Runners Hold Bunion Derby

The D. C. Road Runners Club, with eight Greenbelters already enrolled, has issued an open invitation to young men and women, and to older men as well, to participate in the eight-race Bunion Derby to be held during the next two months.

Inexperienced runners compete in races from 1½-3 miles, and the better runners cover up to 10 miles.

Anyone completing 5 of the 8 races will receive a trophy in the "Run for your life" division, which is for beginning runners.

The first of the eight races in the Bunion Derby was run yesterday. The others are: June 29, 1½ miles, Good Counsel high school; July 8, 2 miles, O'Connell high school (Virginia); July 14, 2½ miles, St. John's high school; July 21, 2½ miles (alternate 440's relay for two men), American University; Aug. 4, 3 miles site not set; Aug. 10, 2 miles, Fairfax, Va., YMCA; and Aug. 16, 1½ miles, American University.

All races start at 7 p.m. Trophies are awarded the first three finishers, the first boy 12 and under, and the first finisher over 40 not otherwise winning a trophy. The entry fee is 50 cents for each race.

The D. C. Road Runners Club will again sponsor a long distance race (probably 9 miles) as part of Greenbelt's Labor Day Festival.

In a June 13 race, Billy Noel, 10, of 105 Nothway Road, won a 1½-mile handicap race in 10:16, with Michael Noel second.

Hugh Jascourt of Greenbelt is president of the Road Runners Club.

Turn your back on defrosting

Move up to a new frost-free refrigerator-freezer

Your old refrigerator was a sensation—in its day. But tell the truth—is it holding all the food you want it to. Is it as glamorous looking as you want it to be? And aren't you rather tired of defrosting? If so, it's time for a change. And here are some of the reasons.

No defrosting ever. No more chipping and scraping. No more lugging pans of scalding hot water from stove to refrigerator to melt ice. No more messy puddles on the kitchen floor.

Holds everything but frost. New thinwall construction increases storage space without taking up more floor space.

The new features you need. See models with meat storage drawers that keep up to 21 pounds of meat fresh-without-freezing for 7 days (even perishable hamburger). See new butter conditioners (years ahead of your old butter keeper) that keep butter soft for spreading. See models with adjustable shelves all the way down . . . or lazy susan shelves that revolve completely.

A color and design for every decor. Including the new pastel beige that looks like coffee ice cream. See models that look like breakfronts, with fresh food storage tucked away behind eye-level French doors, illuminated counter space, a huge roll-out freezer. See models with decorator doors in dozens of inspired designs, from wild-and-woolly West to chic sophistication, to reflect your personality and your kitchen's.

These preference names will be posted at the pool lobby the day after registration, with class times given. Payment for the class may then be made to the pool cashier.

This year, classes will be 45 minutes in length and will be held four times a week for two weeks. This is exactly the same amount of instruction per child as in the past. We hope to accommodate more children with these new procedures.

Measles Immunization

Health experts have been complaining lately about measles. Not their own — other people's. And no wonder. Here is an old-time contagious disease that could easily be scratched from the list. But it's still permitted to hang around.

But if the outlook for abolishing measles seems spotty right now, don't blame medical science. The doctors and researchers have done their part of the job by developing a safe and efficient vaccine. Trouble is that parents haven't been bothering to get Junior vaccinated. Result: half a million cases are still reported every year, and the U. S. Public Health Service estimates that ten times as many go unreported.

Ninety per cent of American kids have measles by the time they are 15, according to Dr. Luther L. Terry, U. S. Surgeon General. He also pointed out that the disease isn't harmless as many parents think. Complications often result, including serious diseases such as encephalitis and pneumonia. About 10 per cent of the encephalitis patients die, according to Government health statistics. Of those that recover, 15 to 20 per cent are left with such unpleasant relics as mental retardation, sight or hearing defects, or behavior disorders.

Measles, in short, is nothing trivial. It could be substantially wiped out in this country in a short time if the vaccine were widely used.

The Public Health Service has appealed to all parents to have their children immunized against measles during 1965.
